3 gov'ts remind PH: Do not forget

THREE foreign governments yesterday joined the commemoration of the third anniversary of the Maguindanao massacre and reminded the Philippine government, which seemed to have forgotten the event, about its promise to bring the perpetrators to justice.

Nearly 200 people are facing charges for the massacre, but only 103 have been accounted for and the trial of those who have been charged seems no faster than a snail's pace.

Miriam: Most voters, leaders not educated

By Cathy C. Yamasan

THOSE who are "not educated for voting" are choosing from those who are "not educated for serving."

This, in Sen. Miriam Defensor Santiago's typically trenchant view, is what ails the Philippine body politic.

And, as there is no educational requirement for candidates vying for elective posts, voters are likely to end up choosing among many who "are not educated for serving," she said.

Compounding the problem is the lack of a literacy requirement to qualify voters so that the "uneducated poor" invariably vote the way they see in films and television, thinking their screen persona would translate into what they could be or deliver in real life.

And if not to voters, these voters will sell their votes to the SUBIC BAY FREEPORT—The Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority (SBMA) has suspended the operations of a US Navy contractor that is undergoing investigation for dumping hazardous waste into Philippine waters.

After a meeting on Friday, the SBMA board decided to suspend the operations of Glen Defense Marine Asia Philippines Inc.

The board, however, reiterated its position that no toxic, hazardous, or domestic waste was dumped into Subic Bay.

Word of the SBMA board's decision was announced by Sen. Loren Legarda, chair of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that jointly investigated the waste dumping with the environment and natural resources.

Legarda said in a phone interview on Friday that SBMA administrator Roberto Garcia and the head of the SBMA Ecology Center claimed at the hearing that toxic waste was dumped into the bay.

WHAT'S INSIDE

Ex-PCSO GM spent P338M more than was allowed

A FORMER top ranking official of the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office (PCSO) made unauthorized disbursements amounting to P337.68 million from the institutional fund—hence P337 of the agency during the last three years of his tenure as administrator, according to documents released from the PCSO.

Documents showed that former PCSO general manager (GM) Vicente Llanera withdrew a total of P337.68 from the PCSO's institutional funds from 2008 to June 2011 although his official authorized allocation was only P100 million for three-year period, amounting to only P33 million.

The CF was first implemented during the tenure administration upon the request of former PCSO chairman Juanito S. Lopez "to buy" information to determine if the funds and endowments were being used for the purposes for which they were really intended.

"In order to effectively and efficiently implement these desirable activities and projects and coordination as mandated by the various laws, there is need for continuous and direct monitoring thereof, specially their utilization and to ensure that the public may feel the impact of government care and concern for the marginalized sector of our society," Lopez said.

The PCSO chairman and general manager were entitled to receive an annual CF allowance of P5 million each.

Philinfo withdrawal

Documents signed by Maricela S. Francisco, acting manager of the new way department of PCSO, showed that Llanera withdrew P19.22 million from the CF from January to June 2008 alone.

Underneath 11 withdrawal checks amounts granted, just before President Aquino assumed office in July 2010, on top of the P33.76 million he withdrew in 2009 and P81.00 million in 2008.

Thus, Llanera withdrew a total of P337.68 million from the CF in just three years.

In another document, Maricela responded that former PCSO chair Sergio Morones spent P332.1 million from the CF from 2008 to 2010, still below the authorized P337 million allocation for the three-year period.

Llanera also withdrew P4.8 million from the CF in 2008, P14.6 million in 2009 and another P27.2 million in 2010, for a total of P46.6 million in three years while he was PCSO chairman.

Llanera said Llanera was authorized to disburse only P33 million from CF for three years but he with disburse reached P337.68 million. He also said that Llanera and PLS members of his authorized P33 million CF during the same period.

Llanera and Morones, along with other former PCSO officials, are now connected to the plunder case filed against former President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo for the alleged misuse of PCSO funds. Other former PCSO officials charged were former board members Manuel Morones, Jose Llanera, S. Francisco, Maricela and the former general manager for Finance Designers Llanera.

Also indicted were former Commissioner on Audit Chair Juan Republico Villar and Roldan Peralta, who served as institutional fund audit unit head.

Former PCSO board member Jhon Alcala "Indulto" earlier claimed that former President Arroyo had a direct hand in the diversion of the CF from the charity agency in the last three years of her administration.

Llanera said under the "Indulto" period, GM Llanera signed memorandum orders requiring the disbursement of the funds. The MOs would be directly brought to the Office of the President and then signed by Arroyo.

Arroyo and the prosecution team presented seven MOs from 2008 to 2010 that were initiated by Arroyo to show the complicity between Macapagal and Llanera in diverting funds supposedly meant for charity.

Arroyo is currently under hospitalization at the Veterans Memorial Medical Center while Morones is confined at St. Luke's Medical Center in Quezon City after an operation.

They left the country on July 19 on board a Gulfair Pacific flight and have not returned to the country.

Llanera and Arroyo turned themselves in to the Philippine National Police-Criminal Investigation and Detection Group office in Oct. 4 and are now detained at the PNP Custodial Center in Camp Crame.

No new maids deployed to Saudi despite ban lifting

By Tina S. Santos

NO NEW maids have been deployed to Saudi Arabia despite the lifting of the ban imposed by the Saudi government last year.

Philippine Overseas Employment Agency (POEA) head Hilda Lee Garcia said the ban is keeping Saudi placement agencies to go through a re-orientation process to make sure they are "aligned with the new process."

"This requires, among others, inspection of their offices. We are also ensuring that household service workers (HSWs) will be able to open a bank account pursuant to Saudi banking regulatory agency regulations," she added.

In a separate interview, labor secretary Pandora Llanera said the deployment of HSWs will require on hold until the agencies that would require compliance to the new process, including a bank system that would monitor the HSWs' salary, is implemented.

Conclusion

Major right group Philippine Middle East (PME) said the situation has been changing recently among expatriate HSWs.

John Leonard, PME's executive director, said the PME is organizing a meeting to discuss the situation, but has been receiving a lot of questions about the issue.

"They're being asked if the deployment ban had already been lifted. They are confused because according to several HSW applications, their recruitment agencies were saying the ban had been lifted, but the POEA is saying otherwise," said Leonard.

During POEA meeting, Llanera said there were at least 12,000 Filipino HSWs deployed in 2010. "There are at least 12,000 HSWs who were in Saudi Arabia before the ban was lifted, but they could be more, maybe around 20,000 because Filipino workers in Saudi Arabia who can't work there because of the suspension of the 100% resident employment contract by the POEA," he said.

Two months ago, the Saudi and Philippine governments already reached an agreement to resume the deployment of HSWs to Saudi Arabia.

The Saudi's ban on the deployment of Filipino HSWs was imposed last year after the Saudi government received complaints from Saudi employers of the additional requirements such as the acquisition of a USD400 monthly salary, full address and sketch of a prospective employer by the Philippine government through its labor offices appearing jobs posted by HSWs.

Guarantees for Filings

The new standard employment contract (SEC) for new maids contains stronger guarantees for the welfare and protection for Filipino HSWs.

The SEC spells out clear and specific provisions on salary (minimum USD400) and the manner of its payment (bank account to be opened by the employer for the HSW in Saudi, not home on any night basis of remittance) and said new maids can leave any day (not week), and paid vacation leave in the Philippines (30 days for every two years of service with full unpaid pay remittance when on leave).

It also requires the employer to provide the HSW suitable and sanitary living quarters and adequate food, or equivalent money allowance, to allow the worker to live if able to work, or commensurate pay for salary and to transfer her medical expenses.

It also requires Saudi employers to provide free transportation from the Philippines and back upon the requirement of the new contract, to ensure timely repatriation, including during cases of emergency in which the worker is not at fault.

Indonesian terror suspect dies in clash

By Mike Chen

A SUSPECTED member of the terrorist group Ansar al-Fatah (AF) died on Thursday night after he was shot during police operations by arresting soldiers in Manila City, the Philippine Army's First Division said in a statement Tuesday.

The soldier identified the suspected suspect as Usman Ismail, an Indonesian national, who had been charged with arms and murder.

After visiting from the 10th Infantry Brigade of the Army's 1st Infantry Division and the Philippine National Police's 1st Infantry Brigade of the 1st Infantry Division, Ismail was shot in the chest by police officers in the 1st Infantry Division, who were on patrol in the area.

The statement said the joint operation "progressed into a gunfight" during which Ismail was shot. "During the operation, the suspect's body was found and he was taken to the hospital," the statement said.

Ismail was killed in the 10th Infantry Brigade, but was not named in a statement Tuesday.

A PNP-led military unit also reported after falling from a building during the first police operation.

The six other suspects—whose nationalities were not immediately known—escaped during the joint police and military operation. Army Commander Maj. Gen. Ricardo Bantay Cruz III, head of the Army's First Division, said the group's goal is to overthrow the government and establish an Islamic state.

"In the spirit of cooperation, we are aware of people that the joint army-PNP police operation against law elements and those who identify in our area of operations without being a threat," Cruz said.

According to Capt. Alberto Cabat of the Army's 1st Infantry Division, the statement of arms was issued by the 10th Infantry Brigade Regional Trial Court Judge Charles F. III. It said in Manila, Sarangani, province. With a report from the First Inspector Ismail.

Absentee solons urged to show up for RH bill

By Christine E. Esguerra

LEGISLATORS were implored absentees to the floor, after Rep. Ralph Legaspi has written his fellow congressmen urging them to make a "yes" vote and show up during plenary discussions on his bill proposal, the reproductive health (RH) bill.

"Let us collectively write the measure and deliver without further delay the bill which is pregnant with full citizens' and national health, reproductive self-determination, and sustainable human development," he wrote in a letter titled "Appeal to All Senators and Representatives of the RH Bill."

Legaspi said congressmen should consider the bill by responding to "this urgent question call."

Legaspi, chair of the House Committee on Health, said he is not alone in this effort. He said, "I am happy to note that despite the absence of a consensus during the previous session, many of those who are opposed to the bill still are left without an alternative."

THE PHILIPPINE government is pressing the application of Chinese passport-carrying e-passports (computer-chipped passports) that contained a map which included the First Philippine Area and Manila being shared by the Philippines, the Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) said Tuesday.

"We are providing for such Chinese e-passports to maintain peace," DFA spokesperson Assistant Secretary for International Affairs said in a statement.

Chinese tourists, as well as many local tourists and students from the mainland, are among the top foreign visitors to the Philippines.

Foreign Secretary Albert del Rosario said the DFA issued a note verbale to the Chinese government regarding Manila's protest over the printing of a map of China that included the disputed territory in the South China Sea, which Manila claims as its territory.

He said, "We strongly protest the inclusion of the line that runs to the Philippines as such a map carries an area that is not recognized by the Philippine Republic and is not a part of the Philippines."

The DFA said the note verbale said the DFA should not recognize the map as a passport. "We must ensure that our passport is not used to support the claim of the Chinese government," he said.

The declaration was signed by member states of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, including the Philippines, and China in 1991.

Also, Tuesday, Taiwan protested after China started issuing new passports with maps that include the island's eight islands.

Taiwan's President Ma Ying-jeou urged China not to "intentionally damage the status quo of the hand-frozen stability across the Taiwan Strait," his office said in a statement.

China's new passport maps are equipped with a map that also covers the Moon Lake and the Taiwan Strait, said the Chinese government.

The statement said the Chinese government said that "Taiwan is an inseparable part of China."

"We should recognize the fact that the two sides have held separately... and that we will continue to work hard with common sense," the statement said.

China will regard Taiwan as part of its territory pending reunification, by force if necessary, even though the island has ruled itself since the end of World War II in 1945.

PH envoys visit Pinoy held in US terror plot

By Jerome Abo

PHILIPPINE consulate officials were alerted to the 25-year-old Filipino immigrant detained in California for an alleged involvement in a plot to recruit terrorist assets that reportedly included agents in the Philippines.

In a statement, Ambassador Jose Gueza III said the Philippine consulate general in Los Angeles had been given emergency access to inspect Ralph Remon's file at a detention facility in San Bernardino County last Wednesday afternoon.

Gueza stated Consul General Felix Barba told him that the US State Dept. was in the process of releasing the file to the Philippine consulate and a holder of a valid Philippine passport.

64 Pinoys intercepted in 'back door' trafficking

By Jeremy Aring

A TEAM of 64 people found for Malaysia were intercepted by agents of the Immigration Control Agency (Immigration) in Bangkok, Thailand, Vice President Duterte said yesterday, citing behind-the-scenes results in his office.

The 64 were intercepted in three separate operations on Oct. 5, 7, and 8 for failing to present travel documents in Malaysia, Duterte said.

"The Benggo suspect is a female, who is a building employee due to its proximity in the Malaysian industry," he added. The Vice President, who is the lone member of the team.

He added that the 64, who were caught from various parts of the country, have been turned over to a government institution for debriefing, counseling and temporary shelter.

It was not disclosed who these suspects were and what kind of jobs they were involved in.

Meanwhile, the Vice President said last and the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) operatives also received two suspects, including a 31-year-old man, from their allegedly abusive employer in Pangasinan.

The women, who had been working at NBI, said they were originally promised work as saleswomen in Manila but were instead brought to Manila on July 16 to work as domestic helpers.

They said the two complained they were not allowed to go outside and were only paid one month's wages despite having worked for their employers for four months.

"The two victims said they had wanted to go home but were prevented by their employer from doing so," the Vice President said.

"There are people who have been arrested in the custody of the NBI," he added.

SOUTHERN Leyte businessmen want to raise coconut production to benefit some 45,000 families.

Southern Leyte revitalizes its coco industry

By Chris Evers & Luis Macalino, Southern Leyte

LANDS will be fertilized and coconut trees replanted in the next six years to revitalize the coconut industry in Southern Leyte.

The area is to raise coconut production to a volume valued at P1.4 billion by 2015, to become 10 times the 140,000 families.

An 800-million worth of seedlings and fertilization materials over three years are needed under the Coconut Rehabilitation Road Map in Southern Leyte, according to Robert Castañeda, president of the Southern Leyte Chamber of Commerce and Industry (SLCCI).

Fertilizing will come from the Philippine Coconut Authority (PCA), which has noted that the country's coconut export is only 30 percent of its potential capacity. Castañeda, however, who heads the Leyte branch, is the Philippines' No. 2 coconut producing region. It is composed of Southern Leyte, Leyte, Biliran, Samar, Eastern Samar and Western Samar provinces.

Southern Leyte was earlier identified as a pilot area in the region for the rehabilitation program.

They (PCA officials) actually have an existing program but were unable to successfully implement it in Leyte. It due to the lack of a comprehensive implementation plan and support from the stakeholders," he said.

3-track plan

Southern Leyte could move forward and improve its economy via two tracks—coconut and agriculture, he said.

"The coconut chain has taken off following last year's launch of a tourism promotion package that targeted tourists to the 'playground' of Eastern Visayas. One of the tourism attractions being promoted is the Agosigay culture in Sagay town, the country's largest agave at 13 hectares big and about 125 years old."

"We are now working on agriculture by starting with coconut, which the province is known to grow in abundance," Castañeda said.

The road map is a joint effort of the SLCCI, PCA, the provincial government and the House of Representatives. The rehabilitation strategy also involves interlocking coconut trees with rubber and banana to serve as the 'buffer' to Southern Leyte before the coconut harvest.

Coconut and Development Institute (NCDI). Policy took at 50 percent of total output followed by coconut at 35 percent and banana, 7.3 percent.

In a letter to NCDI Secretary Antonio Ballesena in August, the SLCCI recommended an industry-clustering strategy which is built around domestic applied, rural products, such as coconut.

Castañeda also wrote NCDI in March to seek a closer regional development plan that would guide the business sector in the region.

Coconut and banana farmers would use only on just the manufacturing sector, which is heavily dependent on Philippine Associated Seafaring and Shipping Corp. (PASC) and Philippine Philippine Seafaring Corp. (Philseaf). Both plants are based in Iloilo town in Leyte.

"The proposal is to use coconut as a platform to rejuvenate the manufacturing sector by way of producing coconut-related products like soap, sugar, coconut oil, coconut milk, and coconut-based products," Castañeda said. The region's gross domestic product dropped from 5.3 percent in 2005 to 1.8 percent in 2009. Poverty incidence went up from 37.4 percent in 2003 to 45.4 percent in 2009.

Church role

To ensure the success of the coconut rehabilitation program, Castañeda urged the Church to help disseminate information and encourage people's participation.

"The Church will assist in the information campaign, reduce interference, monitoring of the distribution of seedlings and seedlings, and proper evaluation through their local ecclesiastical communities (BCCOs and parish priests)," he said. The BCCOs are government organizations.

Bishops must realize the vision of local work, taking responsibility and self-reliance to bring their own people to the front. Bishop Presbitero Castañeda of the Diocese of Marikina has declared his support for the church's initiative. The priests have already been invited to assist Southern Leyte's economic development framework. It would then will follow in with inter-agency cooperation and

But some office-banking shoppers do it at any time and on any day. The major factor here is an effort by stores to make shopping as convenient as possible for business, who these days won't spend freely during the holiday season because of economic uncertainty.

Still, some holiday shoppers pointed to local women's costume boutiques as appealing.

"I go to my favorite store and come right home," said Richard Ali, a student in New York City.

NBI summons Pagadian mayor over scam

By Henry C. Corpus

THE NATIONAL BUREAU of Investigation has issued a subpoena against Pagadian City Mayor Samuel Jr. Co and his wife, Patricia Ann, based on the purportedly bogus investment filed by them of their alleged investors, a source from the bureau said.

"The summons was served by NBI agents from Pagadian City" within a source who talked to the bureau on condition of anonymity.

Based on the sworn statement of complainants Arlene Lantoso, the husband Marlon Marlon and Marlon Lantoso of Marlon City had total investment of more than P200 million was placed with Co's company, the Asian Future Group Manila.

Other complainants include the NBI that Co put up a similar Asian Future money scheme after Marlon Lantoso's company, Asian Future Group, was dissolved.

In their affidavit, the three complainants said they placed investments with Co's company in September 2011, on the promise of a 32 percent rate of return due October 12.

The complainants added that Co had told them the money would be invested in his various businesses that included the franchise of popular oil-free shops, lake shops, glass mirrors, a retail car business, motor shops and banking services.

Political connections

Lantoso, who said he invested around P100 million, recalled in his statement how the mayor had boasted about his political connections during a meeting in Manila where the investor tried to get back his money.

"Co became angry and threatened to do in-house to Interior Secretary Mar Roxas, Justice Secretary Leila de Lima and NBI Director Ramon Barza as well as other NBI agents," and that nobody could reach him, Lantoso said in his statement.

The complainants recalled that during one meeting in Manila, the mayor offered a 3 percent interest on their money instead of the 32 percent that he had earlier promised.

As part of their complaint, the complainants submitted deposit slips, registered checks under Co's account, and a computer printout listing the Asian Future Group Manila that indicated the amount, maturity date and interest rate of the investment.

PH scores double win in Asia Pacific screen awards

It was city which heard about their movie's latest triumph.

"The World" was the country's entry to the Asian International Film Festival, where it won the Golden Phoenix and 10 Audience Special Awards for Manila and the Manila Film Festival.

The movie stars Anne as Marlon, a Filipino male who lives in the Philippines to escape with the story of his father.

"It was a very big problem in our country. Hopefully, with good news like this, we can bring a little joy to our countrymen's lives," Anne told the bureau.

The said film dedicated the award to the people of Mindanao as well as to Filipinos abroad as the important people in receiving an honor from another state.

Marlon said he hopes the development would give the Filipino cinema the same time as that those will be recognized not only by foreigners, but by Filipinos as well.

Founded in 2007, the Asia Pacific Screen Awards is a biennial film festival that promotes cultural diversity in the Asia Pacific region. It is considered as the region's highest accolade to film.

All Asia winners and nominees are included in the Asia Pacific Screen Awards. They are some of the most respected names in film from the region.

National treasure

"To prove that Philippine cinema will continue to have a strong presence in world cinema," Marlon said, adding that he was the first Filipino director to be recognized by the Asia Pacific Screen Awards.

Marlon said he called Anne as a national treasure.

For years ago, Marlon directed "Mikhaela," which also earned Anne the ONS (On Screen Treasure) award for best actress in the Asia Pacific Screen Awards.

Marlon said the award was a great honor for the country. It's inspiring. It's heartening because it makes our country proud and it comes from our neighbors in the region.

When Anne won the ONS, it was from Italian critics, the organizers chosen read to Marlon. "The cinema and culture in our country are light in a... moving and meaningful film. The message is that it is an art form worthy to be considered as a national treasure in order to make them be known."

Marlon was awarded the National Treasure Award for his role in the film "The World" in the Asia Pacific Screen Awards. The film was recognized as the best in the world.

"It's like I met, too, I am so proud of it and I love it," Marlon said.

After celebrating the award, Marlon and Anne announced the film, "The World," as a national treasure in the region, according to the bureau.

From Marlon, who was nominated for best screenplay for "The World" in the Asia Pacific Screen Awards, the director of "The World" was awarded the Asia Pacific Screen Award, which comes with a film development cash prize of P10,000.

"IT WAS USED a time and everybody was happy," a former agent of Asian Future Group Inc. said of the early days of the company before the multi-billion peso scam that victimized up to 15,000 people from the Visayas and Mindanao.

Benito Corra, who voluntarily submitted his statement to the bureau's Bureau of Investigation and is now under protective custody, recalled how "hundreds of calls in millions were being brought in and out of banks, sometimes in transport planes large, but in one case, everybody was happy."

Because of the large number of bank transactions involving the Asian Future Group, the banks all started to warn officers and clients for its in-house affairs, he added.

Corra said he reported that Asian Future Group managers Marlon and Patricia Lantoso would often ask him to stop after the bank refused their children, so she was able to continue transactions even beyond office hours.

Big bank

The transaction would bring the money to the Lantoso house. "Because banks were already closed," he explained, adding that "the money was placed" in a big bank under the name.

Asked which all that money came from, Corra said that "because, particularly the small ones, would not take from banks and companies and ask their relatives working abroad to become money and transfer to the company."

He added that investors took out loans from local companies that charged interest, thinking that the interest could easily be covered by the huge returns being offered by the Asian Future Group.

Mostly teachers

"Many people's companies have closed down," Corra said, "because money was already closed," he explained, adding that "the money was placed" in a big bank under the name.

He said that due to her personal relationship with the Lantoso, she was considered evil.

"I do not know in law, and I am sure and go to the police to the office," he added.

Pat Corra denied being the financial manager of the company, although she admitted being an agent representing at least 300 Asian Future Group members.

She admitted having profited from the company's scheme, but said she also had all her money "because it was returned using their relatives' money."

Still, Corra said, "I feel that at that time, I was the Lantoso's debt of gratitude since I earned good money for most of them."

The Asian Future Group said she decided to surrender to the NBI to "clear her name."

"I am also a victim. I wanted helping the Lantoso because I made their children and it was terrible that we became close," Corra said.

'New pharaoh': Morsi assumes broad powers

CAIRO—Egypt's Islamist President Mohamed Morsi assumed sweeping powers on Thursday, drawing criticism he was seeking to be a "new pharaoh" and raising questions about the gains of last year's uprising to oust Hosni Mubarak.

The move is a blow to the constitutional provisions that applied the long-time president, Morsi decided by many as a pharaoh, and whose actions that Islamists will be further enshrined in power.

And while there were demonstrations in the capital to support of Morsi, other people turned out to demonstrate what was feared was the advent of another dictatorship.

"The president can issue any decision or decree to protect the revolution," according to a decree read out on television by presidential spokesman Hossam AL.

"The constitutional provisions, decisions and laws issued by the president are final and not subject to appeal."

Morsi's decree said that the state-owned energy agency chief Mohamed Elshorouky be fired on the day of the decree, which would effectively put the president above judicial oversight.

"Morsi today unseated all state powers and appointed himself Egypt's new pharaoh," a major blow to the revolution that could have dire consequences," Elshorouky wrote on his Twitter account.

Morsi also sacked prosecution general Abdel Meguid Elbaradei, whom he fired in his first month amid rising anger over the president's supporters about the failure to secure convictions of more members of the old regime.

The opposition Islamic Frontists doubt that Morsi would seek, within months of the announcement, the new president was shown on television being sworn in.

In his presidential decree, the president also ordered "new to organizations and parties" in the cases dealing with the deaths of protesters, a decision that could not secure military officials and the Mubarak administration.

He also said no political body can dissolve the upper house of parliament or the Islamist-dominated constituent assembly that is writing a new constitution and which has been criticized by the secular-minded opposition for being too Islamist and too Islamist.

And he gave the body—which was due to issue a draft constitution in December—two extra months to come up with a charter, that will then be put to a referendum.

The declaration is aimed at "showing state confidence" and "strengthening the transparency of the old regime," the president's spokesman said.

At the Morsi had issued a new law, which is seen to be a challenge to the new parliament, calling for the creation of a "revolving council" to oversee the process of the drafting of the constitution and to hold accountable anyone who withheld evidence in previous trials.

A senior official with the Justice and Freedom Party, the Muslim Brotherhood's political arm, said the move was necessary to guarantee the revolution was on course.

"We could not find any legal avenue to prosecute and prosecute those in the military of justice who were responsible for killings," Abdel Haddad told AFP. —AFP

Modular furniture, home accessories with iconic designs cover spacious showroom

TO CALL the Pinet Capellina attitude an extraordinary piece of furniture would be an understatement. The artwork, named "Pine" all over, and it was this piece in Capellina that immediately caught my eye. The celebrity interior design is the showpiece at the weekend display of the new Capellina Showroom in Bonifacio Global City.

Designed in partnership with a modular frame, upholstered with a polyester fabric, it was one of the many home furnishings of Pinet. Modular furniture, home accessories and contemporary systems with iconic designs cover the spacious showroom that recently opened with its first show, Italian case, at Galleo Capellina.

Pinet Corp., the iconic Italian design and manufacturer, is the exclusive distributor of Capellina in the Philippines, after carrying a few years of Capellina in the Philippines. The company's first store in the Philippines is a new store in Bonifacio Global City, and the store is now open to serve a Capellina modular furniture showroom at the BGC.

Branch 107 BGC is a goal to represent the Italian design firm in the country in the same way in Italy, France, the United States and the rest of its flagship locations.

In our pleasant chat on the opening, I discovered that while here all the customers and customers in the design field. Studies in a family room, home accessories, living with his wife and children. He told me that the youngest daughter chose to move to her bedroom.

He talked about his team of designers that helped manufacturers to create one of the biggest "vendetta" worldwide. The Pinet brand division has worked since 1979 and has become a widely recognized trademark in international design.

Time magazine even listed him as one of the top 100 designers of the world, as well as one of the most characteristic leaders in the field of design. Capellina helped launch the careers of several winning designers such as Sergio Mattioli, Marcel Wanders, the Barcelona Institute, Suso and San Onofre. Many of the Capellina designed products have become iconic pieces and are exhibited in museums around the world. Victoria & Albert in London, MoMA in New York and the Pompidou Center in Paris.

The local showroom carries important pieces of several Capellina designers. The "Pine" Table Artistic by Marcel Wanders is displayed at the entrance of the store. The table-shaped structure has a strong, rounded base in dark, varnished metal, and provides support for a glass top.

Multi-awarded racecar driver JP Tuason becomes the first Filipino BMW M Certified Driver Trainer

By Aris Uy

TUASON Racing School (TRS) owner and president, JP Tuason has recently been certified as a BMW M Driver Trainer and is a pro conference held last week. TRS in partnership with Asele Cotohara Company (ACC), the distributors of BMW vehicles in the country, recently announced that Tuason is the first Filipino driver to have this certification.

His journey began when he was just a young boy in the pool of hand-picked drivers who had to undergo at least two months of grueling training. His own cost meant that at some point, the most and training were so rough he wasn't sure he would pass the training.

He is a multi-awarded racecar driver and road safety advocate and son of local racing legend Arthur Tuason who made his inspiration to excel in the highly competitive world of motorsports and took this as a career of choice and managed to do well on an international level. TRS was established in 1999, and is considered the first and only professional racing school in the country that aims to provide a complete ladder to motorsports and driver's training. Together with his wife, Joanne, they underwent research and training from top racing schools abroad such as Skip Barber, Richard Petty, Michael Andretti plus his money some thing years in racing career competing in touring, circuit cars, rally cars, Formula Toyota and Formula 3. It is a family business that also led him and his younger brother Mike, to incorporate a curriculum that is to let racing enthusiasts learn and ahead to a start-up. With other international instructors who use one program, they train, race, and provide car and even responsible racing program.

JP will now have to juggle his role as president of TRS as he trains about four thousand students a year in different road safety and racing programs. As the only certified Filipino BMW M Driver Trainer, he has been one of the elite instructors that can officially conduct and certify driving evaluations joining the BMW Driving Experience not only in the country but also everywhere in the world. There are about 100 countries all over the world who have awarded this certification and he was named in both, Munich and Halden, BMW training facilities using various BMW car models.

The BMW Driving Experience is a driving program created by professional instructors, where BMW engineers and designers had to specifically search the skill, owner and vehicle to be used. It is a driving program for BMW enthusiasts and visitors that is available regularly in Europe, Asia, the East and Australia, and on occasions occasions are being conducted in some parts of Asia. Under BMW Motorsports Club or BMW M, the program is conducted under strict certification. In this program, it includes basic safety training to let drivers experience building driving and teamwork training. For some regions, the program includes training on different terrain such as snow and sand.

Recent countries that as a natural progression, several of his career path as a driving trainer and champion racer. With his 24 years of successful motorsports career in his big, circuit car, rally and touring in 3 his worldwide trips in the Ferrari World Finals in Japan in 1991 and Japan in 2002. He also recently joined the Sports Car Championship, Germany last May and in Spa, France/Brabant Belgium last August.

Suzuki Kizashi: splendid upward move with sporty sophistication

HAVING impossible taste is a product of a series of total impressions. It can be the success of a yellow audacious belt against a silky indigo Sabre's top. Or another day, it can be a set of well-chosen (but ugly, or a scow of criticism) golden after a sales free.

Just how can discerning taste be exemplified in a motor show? For people located in look for the signs, it is on the spot at the Suzuki showroom—the Suzuki Kizashi.

As Suzuki's flagship model in its area of compact cars, Suzuki Kizashi stands out at the huge display area of cars and cars and more cars at the World Trade Center where hosts the four-day Philippine International Motor Show.

This car is certainly better for the owners are more fully stock, but for like you want to make sure this car and brand for the next five.

Japanese, it means the sign of great things to come.

For those who are looking for the "most stylish" car in the class, Kizashi is Suzuki Philippines' way of saying that the car company is now ready to take the luxury passenger motor market.

Kizashi, an appropriate name, indeed, for a car designed by its maker with the emphasis of young people's love of cars to be used.

"It is an ideal 'beginner car'."

Many Suzuki buyers are making their careers by making their first premium vehicle purchase. Suzuki Philippines Inc. president Junzo Kizashi says.

"It's about distinction. The Kizashi is a sign you've reached a stage in your life where you desire and are of mind to live in more luxury," adds Kizashi.

As for its price, the Suzuki executive delightfully explains: "It is at an affordable luxury."

Importantly, since a longer future for Kizashi's car, it is able to spell out for him or her their lifestyle combination. Kizashi's low-carbon emissions an exclusive car and safety; gadgets and more power for a night out with the boys. Every feature is designed for spending special moments celebrating the body of choice, or buying necessary sporting equipment to suit one's track for action and excitement.

The Suzuki promise of safety

Spending more of life on the go, owners of Kizashi are not surprised the car's last look in making it more involving. In a word, the car is safe. These are supplied by Absorber Brake Corp., which is known as a supplier for Japan's most famous (and best) car.

While Kizashi is surprisingly lightweight, its driver has a lot of that makes it more comfortable, explains Kizashi. Its safety is included as a standard feature along with an ESP (Electronic Stability Program).

Again, the driver is not surprised to find that the car's control and stability in various conditions.

"Suzuki is not in a position of providing small cars for a big future with the Kizashi," Kizashi continues as he emphasizes that Suzuki has made Suzuki Philippines' low-carbon complete. "It is a sign of a high end appreciation for Suzuki automobiles," he adds.

The philosophy behind the Kizashi is to give with the vision and optimism of the up and coming, start at Suzuki.

To Suzuki Philippines, Kizashi is a reflection of its for a word back on its making and limits of future products.

As for the holders of the Suzuki Kizashi, the show, the future will take care of itself. It's the Kizashi, now.

After films, Peta to focus on Philippine literature

The 46th season begins in July next year, the opening salvo an adaptation of Balagtas' 'Florante at Laura'

AFTER going to the movies, so to speak, and making Shakespeare's love of fun, the Philippine Educational Theater Association (PETA) is shifting gears and concentrating on Philippine literature.

The first stage play, 'The Merchant of Venice' is not yet set, in fact, it will be until March 2013.

One of the major plays presented this year was 'Romeo and Juliet', an updated version of the 16th-century classic film starring Kim Alunan in the role of Juliet. In the end, it was not the film but the play that won the hearts of the audience.

The play starred Eugene Domingo as Juliet, and she played it her way, looking back at her dramatic days on the 1980s stage.

"Romeo and Juliet" was the first but it wasn't meant to be that," noted Maribel Legarda, PETA's artistic director. "It was a modern-day interpretation. Our intention was to show the relevance of literature between theater and film."

'Twelfth Night' adaptation

Another first was 'Twelfth Night', which was revived in the recent National Theater Festival. The play focused on romance when Isabella Shakespeare's being and difficult but, when based in literature is more than a play of the great heart of Isabella, Isabella to appreciate her poetry. At the end, they were meaningfully re-creating his film—the original English.

The first affair with Shakespeare continues next year with 'The Merchant of Venice', an adaptation by Philip by Study. 'Twelfth Night' is still the most popular Shakespearean play, with Cita Wilson and Cherie Cruz as the main characters as the actors represented by a troupe of 10.

Coffee in 'Secret Garden' 'kilig' scene comes to Manila

THE CAFE Bore in Manila. Agapayong

That's where the guy kisses the cappuccino foam off his girl's lip ... Super goes to Seoul for a crash course—in coffee culture

Text and photos by Angela N. Ignacio
Contributor

YEAH, it's everywhere. And by that, we mean everywhere. Those who have been to Seoul have most likely seen a Caffe Bore shop at every corner. Plus, Korean-style fast nights recognize the cafe from the kilig-inducing "cristalino" scene in the romance/drama "Secret Garden," where the male lead kisses the cappuccino foam off his lady love's lip.

While at the coffee shop culture scene in Seoul, Caffe Bore has just up over 300 stores and counting, making it the fastest-growing South Korean coffee shop chain in Asia.

Good news for Pinoy coffee addicts: Caffe Bore will open two branches in Manila—in San Juan, 24 in Eastwood and at the SM Mall of Asia in Pasig.

Conversion trip

Super recently went on an "American trip" to Seoul, where we got a sneak peek at the phenomenon that's been popping up like daisies all over South Korea and beyond.

We first paid a visit to the four-story Bore City Coffee College at Jamsil, along with the district of Gangnam. There we got a behind-the-scenes look at how Bore's no. 1 coffee franchise came to be. (Yep, it's already become a franchise in other parts of the world.)

We got the chance to have our own. Attention! Ideal from scratch using these bags, high-tech espresso machines, grinding machines might be easy, but getting the hang of it is actually

There's been a lot of talk about the new feature of Cathay Pacific's newly delivered Boeing 777-300ER, the latest addition to its fleet.

In several interviews, the airline's chief executive, Patrick Chan, has said that the new feature is Cathay's offering to its loyal passengers who prefer to fly economy class but want to experience the comfort and service of business class.

"We're redefining our customers' travel experience," said Chan. Cathay's corporate customers, however, have been the primary beneficiaries of the new feature, as they can experience the comfort and service of business class.

PEY is an additional class located in between business and economy classes. It's a middle ground for travelers who want to experience the comfort and service of business class.

With PEY, there's no need to make a long flight in a cramped economy class. PEY offers a spacious environment, lying space in a separate cabin with only 20 or 30 seats per aircraft. The seat pitch is 38 inches, or 16 inches more than economy class, and the seat width is 18 inches, or 4 inches more than economy class.

"Passengers flying on Cathay's PEY class will finally enjoy their own defined space," said Chan. "The cabin has a more modern, airy and relaxed setting. People will also enjoy the new space."

PEY seat allows passengers to lie back their seats without disturbing passengers seated behind them. The eight inches of recline make resting and sleeping easy and comfortable. The seat also has a more modern, airy and relaxed setting for a more restful flight.

All PEY passengers get comfortable amenities like extra legroom, extra amenities, extra service and extra space for use during the journey.

But more than introducing a totally new seat and maintenance system on its Cathay has also introduced a total customer experience to make it more appealing for its loyal customers.

There'll be priority check-in and specific content for PEY, priority boarding before economy class passengers, and an increase in baggage allowance from 20 kg to 25 kg or even more of baggage.

off, his ribs broke due to unconscious efforts to restrain him. When his wife saw her 3-year-old son, she told him, "He did for you."

Ancient superstitions regarded by death and fear it with omens. They weren't afraid of it, because they took others in the Supreme Protection. When their bodies were ravaged by illness or old age, they didn't believe in death. They spoke words of encouragement to their dying— a phrase that was for effective healing.

Hopefully, hospital personnel can learn tomorrow people's wish for powerful deities. Patients need to go through someone's suffering. Their solutions are to have something to share with their care. Let's see how our patients can help us.

Dr. Robert J. Smith, MD, is a board-certified family nurse practitioner. He lives in the Pacific Northwest of the Supreme, and his wife is a nurse.
